

We know that there are WAY MORE topics to cover (languages, literature, music, outdoor education, etc.), but we had to start somewhere!

ART	HISTORY	MATH	SCIENCE	OTHER VIRTUAL TOURS

National Museum – New Delhi is really fun to explore online- they even have an exhibit on calligraphy! https://artsandculture.google.com/partner/national-museum-delhi?hl=en When you are done exploring this one, click on the “Google Arts & Culture” words in the upper left corner for a plethora of options!	National Women’s History Museum: Oh, my goodness- this website is FULL of cool stuff. https://www.womenshistory.org/womens-history/online-exhibits	There are SO MANY math resources online, but this website does a good job of bringing them all together and is suitable for all ages. We found a few broken links, but all-in-all, it’s pretty decent! http://www.studentguide.org/a-complete-list-of-online-math-resources/	National Geographic for Kids is a one-stop shop for fun articles about science, history, geography and animals. Additionally, there’s a “Kids Club” section with activities for students and a “Games” section with memory games and quizzes. A fun site with loads of resources for kids, parents and teachers: https://www.natgeokids.com/au/	Just fun to explore with the whole family... https://www.virtualiteach.com/post/2017/08/20/10-amazing-virtual-museum-tours
Locally, our own Richmond Art Museum has several beautiful pages on their collections. Just visit the “Collections” menu to access it: https://richmondartmuseum.org/	National Museum of Natural History (and several other Smithsonian museums) has a REALLY well done virtual tour that is more like visiting the museum than most others: https://naturalhistory.si.edu/visit/virtual-tour	If your child is in Laura’s class, you know Prodigy well. This is a fun site for kids to practice math skills while playing games: https://www.prodigygame.com/	Gotta love MIT for making science fun! This website takes you to a TON of short videos on everything from why ships float to how computers compute. They even have a cool “Ask MIT” collection of videos. https://www.k12videos.mit.edu/videos	The Cincinnati Zoo is doing a Facebook Live event each day at 3pm focused on one of their amazing creatures! https://www.facebook.com/incinnatizoo/
